2. if the applicant is represented, a power of attorney and the name and address of applicant's representative in the Lao PDR;
3. a clear image of the geographical indication;
4. statement of the geographical region to which the proposed geographical indication applies;
5. goods to which the proposed geographical indication applies and applicable methods of control;
6. statement of the basis on which the proposed geographical indication is claimed to be a geographical indication, and evidence in support of such statement;
7. where the geographical application is based on protection in a foreign country, evidence that the geographical indication is protected in its country of origin;
8. receipt for payment of fees and service charges.

One registration application is valid for only one geographical indication.

The Ministry of Science and Technology shall accept the application and assign a filing date that contains, at least documents as provided in items 1, 3, 5 and 8 of the above-mentioned paragraph.

Any individual, legal entity or organization wishes to apply for registration of geographical indication, shall satisfy all requirements within the times set by the Ministry of Science and Technology.

Article 36. Provision of Additional Information

Where an application has previously been filed abroad and such application contains some or all of the same subject matter as the application filed in the Lao PDR, the applicant shall disclose such prior filings. The Ministry of Science and Technology may require the applicant to submit, or the applicant may on its own initiative submit copies of relevant documents, in particular, a search or examination report or copy of the patent or petty patent or industrial property registration certificate obtained abroad.

Article 37. Language Used for Filing an Application

An industrial property application and any accompanying material may be filed in either the Lao language or in the English language. Provided however, that for any application or document filed or submitted in English, the applicant must, within ninety days of such filing, supply a translation into the Lao language. Such translation must be certified to be a correct translation.

Article 38 (revised). Formality Examination of Industrial Property Registration Application

The Ministry of Science and Technology will conduct a formality examination of each industrial property application to ensure that the application is complete, in correct form, and that fees and service charges have been paid. The Ministry of Science and Technology will notify the applicant whether the application is sufficiently complete to receive a filing date.

If the application is sufficiently complete to receive a filing date but it appears that the application is incomplete or otherwise incorrectly filed, the Ministry of Science and Technology will inform the applicant to complete the application within sixty days of notification.

Article 39 (revised). Publication of Industrial Property Application

After the Ministry of Science and Technology has completed its formality examination of the application for an invention or utility invention, the application would be published in the official industrial property gazette in the nineteenth month after filing date of the application.

With regard to applications for industrial designs, trademarks, layout-design of integrated circuits and geographical indications shall be published after the completion of the formality examination.

The third party may lodge a refusal claim against such application within ninety days for patent and petty patent [and] sixty days for industrial designs, trademarks, layout-design of integrated circuits and geographical indications from the date of publication on the official industrial property gazette.

Article 40 (revised). Substantive Examination of Industrial Property Applications

After completion of formality examination of the application, the Ministry of Science and Technology will examine as to substance the invention, utility invention, industrial design, trademark and geographical indication applications for registration.

The layout-design of integrated circuit registration application is not examined as to substance.

Article 41 (revised). Claim to Carry out Substantive Examination of Industrial Property Applications

An application for a patent is subject to a substantive examination to determine whether it meets the requirements for patentability or for obtaining a petty patent as described in this law. The substantive examination shall be based on a search of existing technical knowledge. Where the application has previously been subject to a search or examination by another authority the applicant shall submit a copy of the report of such authority and request the Ministry of Science and Technology to consider issuing patent and petty patent without conducting any further search.

If the applicant is unable to provide substantive examination reports for the invention or utility innovation which is the subject of the application, the applicant may submit a request to the Ministry of Science and Technology to examine as to substance the application. The Ministry of Science and Technology will undertake the examination within the following time frames thirty-two months for an invention and twelve months for a utility innovation from the date of filing the application or the priority date. However, all expenses incurred in the request for the examination of the invention or utility innovation registration application shall be the burden of the requestor. The expenses for the substantive examination depend on determination of each patent office of another country or of international organization dealing with examination of patent which shall conduct such substantive examination periodically.

The registration applications for industrial design, integrated circuit layout-design, trademark and geographical indication will not be requested to examine as to substance.

Article 42 (revised). Amendment and Division of Application

At any time, an application is pending before the Ministry of Science and Technology but before it is in order for grant an applicant may amend or divide the application based on the following conditions:

1. amend the application without paying fees and service charges;
2. upon payment of the application fees, divide the application into two or more divisional applications or re-file the application with or without amendments;
3. upon payment of the application fees and service charges, refill the application to change the form of protection requested.

An amendment as provided in item 1 of paragraph 1 of this Article shall not:

1. introduce new technical information not supported by the original application into an application for a patent, petty patent, or registration of an integrated circuit layout-design;

2. change the essential appearance of an industrial design or the essential nature of a mark or geographical indication.

Where an application is divided or refilled as provided in item 2 or 3 of paragraph 1 of this Article, the application shall be entitled to filing date and priority date as set forth in the implementing regulations.

Article 43 (revised). Abandonment of Industrial Property Application

Industrial property application shall be deemed abandoned under the following conditions:

1. the application is incomplete;
2. the industrial property does not meet the requirements for protection;
3. the applicant is not entitled to apply for registration;
4. the applicant fails to pay the required fees and service charges for the application or to maintain the protection in force;
5. the applicant did not request substantive examination of the invention or utility registration application within the period provided for in Article 41 of this law;
6. the applicant does not correct the above items 1, 3, 4 and 5 within the specified time period set by the Ministry of Science and Technology.

Article 44 (revised). Registration

After consideration and examination of the industrial property registration application which is considered to fulfill the requirements provided for in this law, the Ministry of Science and Technology will issue a patent, petty patent or industrial property registration certificate, enter the registration in the registrar and publish the registration on the official industrial property gazette.

Where the registration has been done, the third party may request a cancellation or elimination of such registration within period of five years from the date of publication in the official industrial property gazette.

Article 45 (revised). Termination of Industrial Property Rights

Patents, petty patents, and industrial property registrations shall terminate as follows:

1. the term of protection is expired;
2. the industrial property owner fails to renew the registration and pay the applicable fees and service charges, in which case, rights shall terminate as of the end of the term for which protection was granted and the fees and service charges were paid;
3. the patent, petty patent, or registration is invalidated based on a finding that one or more requirements for protection have not been satisfied; where such finding applies to only a portion of the industrial property, the termination shall apply only to such portion as is invalidated. In such case, the invalidation shall be effective as from the grant of the patent, petty patent, or registration;
4. failure to the commercial exploitation, the industrial property rights will be terminated after the final decision by the competent court.

Chapter 4 Industrial Property Rights Owner

Article 46. Industrial Property Rights Owner

After obtaining lawful patent, petty patent, or registration, the applicant shall become the owner of the industrial property.

In the case that the industrial property creation or design is hired out, the industrial property owner shall be the hirer, except where agreed otherwise by the parties.

Article 47 (revised). Rights of the Industrial Property Right Owner

The industrial property right owner has the following rights:

1. to enjoy the benefits derived from the exploitation of the industrial property;
2. to transfer all or part of the owner's rights to another person by sale, exchange, rent or assignment;
3. to permit another person to exploit all or part of the owner's rights to the industrial property;
4. to inherit industrial property and to pass ownership of the industrial property by inheritance;
5. to take legal action to protect its industrial property from violation by other parties.

Chapter 5

Term of Protection of Industrial Property

Article 48 (Revised). Term of Protection of Patents

The term of protection of patents shall be twenty years from the date of filing the application for registration.

In order to maintain the term of protection, the patent owner shall pay annual fees and service charges in advance.

Article 49 (revised). Term of Protection of Petty Patents

The term of protection of petty patents shall be ten years from the date of filing the application for registration.

In order to maintain the term of protection, the petty patent owner shall pay annual fees and service charges in advance.

Article 50 (revised). Term of Protection of Industrial Designs

The term of protection of industrial designs shall be fifteen years from the date of filing the application for registration.

In order to maintain the term of protection, the industrial design owner shall pay fees and service charges every five years in advance.

Article 51 (revised). Term of Protection of Trademarks

The term of protection of trademarks shall be ten years from the date of filing application for registration. Upon expiry the term of protection may be indefinitely renewed and each period of renewal will be for ten years.

In order to maintain the term of protection the owner of the trademark shall pay fees and service charges every ten years in advance.

Article 52 (revised). Term of Protection of Layout-designs of Integrated Circuits

The term of protection of layout-designs of integrated circuits shall be twelve years from the date of filing the application for registration.

In order to maintain the term of protection the layout-design of integrated circuit owner shall pay annual fees and service charges in advance.

Article 53 (revised). Term of Protection of Geographical indications

The term of protection of geographical indications is unlimited and commences from the date of receipt of the registration certificate and payment of a one-time fee and service charge.

Article 54 (new). Term of Protection of Trade Names

The term of protection of trade names is unlimited until the owner of such trade names stops using it.

Article 55. Term of Protection of Trade Secrets

Trade secrets are protected for an unlimited period or until their secrecy is lost.

Chapter 6

Rights and Obligations of the Industrial Property Owner

Article 56. Rights of the Patent and Petty Patent Owner

A patent owner has the following rights:

1. In case the patent is for a product:
 - 1.1. the right to prevent others, without the owner's authorization, from making, importing, offering for sale, selling, or using the patented products;
 - 1.2. the right to prevent others, without the owner's authorization, from keeping such products for the purposes of offering for sale, sale or use;
2. In case the patent is for a process:
 - 2.1. the right to prevent others without the owner's authorization, from using that process;
 - 2.2. the right to prevent others, without the owner's authorization, from actions defined in item 1, for a product obtained directly from the patented process.
3. authorize individual, legal entity or organization other than the patent owner to undertake any of the acts described in items 1 and 2 of this Article in Lao PDR;
4. to protect their rights under the law and regulations against infringements by others such as to institute court action, [and] right to compensation from damages caused by others;
5. to prevent others from exploiting the patented invention from the time that the patent is issued. The owner may bring a suit for acts of infringement occurring during the pendency of the application only after the patent is granted and only for acts occurring after publication during pendency or if the infringer had notice of the patent application.

For petty patent owners, rights shall be applied likewise as to those of patent owner, mutatis mutandis.

Article 57. Rights of the Industrial Design Owner

An industrial design owner has the right to prevent third parties not having the owner's consent from making, selling or importing articles bearing or embodying an industrial design which is a copy or imitation of the protected design, when such acts are undertaken for commercial purposes.

The provisions of items 3, 4 and 5 of Article 56 of this law shall apply mutatis mutandis, provided however, that where publication is delayed, no suit shall be brought except where the relevant information is first notified to the person being sued.

Article 58. Rights of the Trademark Owner

A trademark owner has the following rights:

1. to prevent all third parties from using in the course of trade identical or similar signs for goods or services which are identical, similar, or related to those in respect of which the trademark is registered where such use would result in a likelihood of confusion;

2. to prevent the sale or advertising of goods bearing the mark or the use of the mark in connection with services, and the importation or export of goods bearing such a mark;

3. to protect their rights under the law and regulations against infringements by others such as to institute court action, [and] right to compensation from damages caused by others.

The rights described in items 1 and 2 of this Article shall not prejudice any existing prior rights.

The rights described above shall apply mutatis mutandis to well-known marks and to trade names without regard to whether they are registered.

Article 59. Rights of Integrated Circuit Layout-Design Owner

An integrated circuit layout-design owner has the right to prevent others without the owner's authorization from:

1. Reproducing a layout-design circuit in its entirety, whether by incorporating it into an integrated circuit or otherwise;

2. Reproducing any part of the integrated circuit, whether by incorporating it into an integrated circuit or otherwise, except where the act of reproducing any part does not require with the requirement of originality referred to item 1 of Article 17 of this law;

3. importing, selling, or otherwise distributing for commercial purposes a protected layout-design or an integrated circuit in which a protected layout-design is incorporated;

4. importing, selling, or otherwise distributing for commercial purposes an article incorporating or an integrated circuit in which a protected layout-design has been incorporated, but only to the extent that it continues to contain an unlawfully reproduced layout-design.

It shall not be unlawful to perform any of the acts in respect of an integrated circuit incorporating an unlawfully reproduced layout-design or any article incorporating such an integrated circuit where the person performing or ordering such acts did not know and had no reasonable ground to know, when acquiring the integrated circuit or article incorporating such an integrated circuit, that it incorporated an unlawfully reproduced layout-design, provided however that after the time such person has received sufficient notice that the layout-design was unlawfully reproduced, that person may perform any of the acts with respect to stock on hand or ordered before such time but shall be liable to pay the right holder a sum equivalent to a reasonable royalty such as would be payable under a negotiated license in respect of such layout-design.

It shall not be unlawful for a private party to reproduce an integrated circuit layout-design for the sole purpose of evaluation, analysis, research, or teaching.

The holder of the right shall not exercise his right in respect of an identical original layout-design that was independently created by a third party.

Article 60 (revised). Rights of Geographical Indication Registration Owner

The owner of the registration of a geographical indication shall have the following rights:

1. to prevent others from applying the geographical indication to goods or including the geographical indication in a trademark, and to prevent the sale, advertising, importation, or export of goods bearing such indication or including the geographical indication in such trademark;

2. to object to the use of a geographical indication in item 1 above where related to wines or spirits, even in translation or accompanied by expressions such as "kind", "type", "style", "imitation" or the like;

3. to protect a geographical indication against a geographical indication which, although literally true as to the territory, region or locality in which the goods originate, falsely represents to the public that the goods originate in another territory;

4. to protect their rights under the law and regulations against infringements by others such as to institute court action, [and] right to compensation from damages caused by others.

Only producers who carry out business undertakings within the geographical region specified for the geographical indication may use the registered geographical indication on or in connection with the goods to which the geographical indication relates.

Any act which is an infringement as described in item 1 or 2 of this Article shall be an act of unfair competition, including the use of any means in the designation or presentation of a good that indicates or suggests that the good originates in a geographical area other than its true place of origin and in a manner that misleads the public as to the geographical origin of the good.

The rights provided in items 1 and 2 of this Article shall be applicable to an indication of goods that is confusingly similar to the protected geographical indication or that are homonymous with it.

Article 61. Rights of Proprietor of Trade Secret

The proprietor of a trade secret has the following rights:

1. to prevent trade secret information lawfully in his control from being disclosed to, acquired by, or used by others without their consent in a manner contrary to honest commercial practices, except:

1.1. discovery of the information by reverse engineering, laboratory testing or analysis, or similar means;

1.2. acquiring the information without an obligation of confidentiality or trust.

2. to protect their rights under the law and regulations against infringements by others such as to institute court action, [and] right to compensation from damages caused by others;

3. to prevent individual, legal entity or organization from misappropriating the trade secret;

4. to disclose, withdraw or utilize trade secret or transfer to other person for disclosure, withdrawal or utilization of trade secret, by defining contents and requirements of keeping secret;

5. to control any person who is lawfully in control of the trade secret from employment or a contract or other agreement, where such obligation of confidentiality shall remain in effect so long as the information remains secret even where the employment, contract or other agreement terminates sooner;

No registration is required for trade secret.

Article 62. Protection of Test or Other Data

Where marketing approval of pharmaceutical or of agricultural chemical products that utilize a new chemical entity is conditioned on the submission of undisclosed test or other data, the origination of which involves a considerable effort, such data shall be protected against unfair commercial use and against disclosure without the consent of the person that originated such data, provided however that such data may be disclosed to the extent necessary to protect the public. No person other than the person that submitted the data may, without the latter's permission, rely on such data in support of an application for product approval during a period of five years after the date on which the Lao PDR granted approval to market the product to the person that produced the data.

Any act in violation of this Article shall be an act of unfair competition. The owner of data described in this Article shall have the right to take measures to enforce rights under this Article and shall have the right, subject to any exceptions provided in this law, to institute court action against an individual, legal entity or organization who performs such acts of unfair competition or who performs acts that make it likely that such acts of unfair competition will occur.

Article 63. Obligations of the Industrial Property Owner

An industrial property owner has following obligations:

1. to be responsible for the protection and management of its rights through monitoring and inspection of the use of the industrial property as provided for in this law;
2. to be responsible to encourage and promote the use of its industrial property by society based on mutual benefit;
3. to be responsible for providing information about violations of its industrial property to the state organizations responsible for such activities;
4. to make financial obligations to the state pursuant to laws and regulations derived from the exploitation, leasing, transfer or inheritance of the industrial property or arising from other benefits;
5. to be responsible for coordinating the remedy of violations of its industrial property.

Chapter 7

Limitation of Rights on Industrial Property

Article 64. Authorization to Exploit without Permission of Patent or Petty Patent Owner

By the Order of the Prime Minister, the Ministry of Science and Technology may authorize an individual, legal entity or organization to produce, use, or importation of a patented invention or utility innovation without authorization from the patent or petty patent owner subject to the provisions of this article.

1. Such authorization shall be permitted only in the following cases:

1.1. in situations of national emergency or circumstances of critical and extreme urgency such as a disaster, epidemic, or war;

1.2. for non-commercial use by the Government to meet the needs for public benefits, especially relating to national defence and public order, food, or public health, or for other urgent needs;

1.3. to remedy a practice determined after judicial process to be anti-competitive and where the court is satisfied that the exploitation of the protected invention is necessary to correct the anti-competitive practice;

1.4. For failure to work the invention or utility innovation so as to satisfy its reasonable demand in the Lao PDR.

2. Each authorization of such use shall be considered on its individual merits, and the scope and duration of such use shall be limited to the purpose for which it was authorized. The right holder shall have the right to present evidence opposing the grant of such authorization, and to propose alternative terms to satisfy domestic demand for the invention or utility innovation;

3. Such use shall be non-exclusive and non-transferrable, even in the form of the grant of a sub-license, except with that part of the enterprise or goodwill which enjoys such use;

4. The authorization shall provide that the right holder shall be paid adequate remuneration in the circumstances of each case, taking into account the economic value of the authorization. The order granting the authorization shall specify the amount of compensation, or how it shall be determined, and any terms for payment thereof. The right holder shall have the right to propose terms for compensation, how it shall be determined, and terms for payment thereof. The need to correct anti-competitive practices may be taken into account in determining the amount of remuneration in cases under item 1.3 of this Article;

5. the right holder may request the Ministry of Science and Technology to reconsider on the appropriate value of the compensation or unreasonable circumstances within sixty days from the date of receiving the notice;

6. the Ministry of Science and Technology shall immediately notify of any decision to grant such authorization to the right holder and of any decision on the compensation to be paid to the right holder;

7. for authorizations under items 1.1, 1.2 or 1.4 of this Article:

7.1. any such use shall be authorized predominantly for the supply of the domestic market of the Lao PDR;

7.2. such use shall only be permitted if, prior to such use, the proposed user has made efforts to obtain authorization from the patent or petty patent owner on reasonable commercial terms and conditions and that such efforts have not been successful within a reasonable period of time;

7.3. the requirement of item 7.2 of this Article may be waived in case of a national emergency or circumstances of critical and extreme urgency, in which case the right holder shall, nevertheless, be notified as soon as reasonably practicable;

7.4. The requirement of item 7.2 of this Article may be waived in cases of public non-commercial use. Where the Government or contractor, without making a patent or petty patent search, knows or has demonstrable grounds to know that a valid patent or petty patent is or will be used by or for the Government, the right holder shall be informed promptly.

8. the legal validity of any decision relating to the authorization of such use, and any decision relating to the remuneration provided in respect of such use, shall be subject to judicial review. Any such appeal as to the grant of the authorization shall be filed within sixty days of the notice;

9. where authorization is requested by a third party pursuant to item 1.4 of this Article, such request must satisfy the following requirements:

9.1. the request shall not be submitted earlier than four years from the date of filing of the patent application or three years from the date of the grant of the patent, whichever period expires last;

9.2. the party making such request shall present evidence that the demand for the patented invention or utility innovation is unmet in the Lao PDR, whether by local manufacture or importation, and that the party making the request has the ability to supply the invention or utility innovation on reasonable terms if the requested authorization is granted. Such evidence shall take into account the need to pay remuneration to the patent or petty patent owner;

9.3. the Ministry of Science and Technology shall notify the patent or petty patent owner of the request within ninety days and shall provide the patent or petty patent owner with an opportunity to present evidence (if applicable), to justify the failure to satisfy demand for the invention or utility innovation by legitimate reasons;

9.4. such authorization shall be refused if the patent or petty patent owner justifies his failure to work or to satisfy demand in the Lao PDR by legitimate reasons.

10. in no case shall such authorization operate to deprive the patent or petty patent owner of the right to continue to exploit the invention or utility innovation;

11. an authorization granted herein may be amended as to its terms, taking into account the continued existence of an emergency or of a new emergency, subject to the provisions and protections provided herein;

12. authorization for such use shall be liable, subject to adequate protection of the legitimate interests of the persons so authorized, to be terminated if and when the circumstances which led to it cease to exist and are unlikely to recur, or where the authorized party fails to fulfill the requirements contained in the order authorizing such party's use of the invention or utility innovation:

12.1. the Ministry of Science and Technology shall have the authority to review, upon request of the right holder or other concerned party, the continued existence of the circumstances that were the basis for such authorization;

12.2. if it appears that the circumstances that were the basis for the authorization have ceased to exist and are likely to reoccur, the Ministry of Science and Technology may make reasonable provision to provide adequate protection of the legitimate interests of persons receiving such authorization;

12.3. the Ministry of Science and Technology shall have the authority to refuse termination of authorization if and when the conditions which led to such authorization are likely to recur.

Article 65. Non-Use of Trademarks

A non-use of trademark is the following cases:

1. the trademark has not been used for a consecutive period of five years;
2. the trademark has been used merely token use or such use not been in good faith by the owner.

Any individual, legal entity or organization may request to the Ministry of Science and Technology to cancel or revoke the registration of the non-use of the trademark. In any cancellation or revoke proceeding, the owner shall be entitled to present reasons justifying the non-use of the trademark. Force major to such use arising independently of the will of the owner shall be recognized as valid reasons for non-use.

A trademark is used if it is used on or in connection with the goods or services of the trademark for which it is registered, by the owner or by another with authorization of the owner and subject to the owner's control.

Article 66. Conditions on Layout-designs of Integrated Circuits

In the case that a layout-design integrated circuit is exploited for commercial benefits, whether within or outside the country, the application for registration of the layout-design integrated circuit must be filed within two years of the first commercial exploitation of the layout-design of integrated circuit, in any event, the term shall not exceed 15 years from the date of creation.

Article 67 (revised). Exploitation of Geographical indications

Where the registrant fails to perform under the requirements of the registration of the geographical indications, individual, legal entity or organization may bring an action to the Ministry of Science and Technology to suspend the exploitation of a registered geographical indication. The Ministry of Science and Technology shall notify the registrant to comply with the requirements and within the time-period provided. If the registrant fails to do so, the exploitation of such geographical indications shall be suspended.

Part IV New Plant Variety Chapter 1 New Plant Variety Requirements

Article 68 . Genera and Species

The genera and species are described in the separate regulations.

Article 69 (revised). Requirements for Registration of New Plant Varieties

A plant variety to be registered as a new plant variety shall meet all the following requirements:

1. new;
2. distinct;
3. uniform;
4. stable.

In addition to the above-mentioned requirements, a denomination of the new plant variety shall be taken into account.

Article 70 (revised). Novelty

A variety shall be deemed to be new if, at the date of filing of the application for a breeder's right, propagating or harvested material of the variety has not been sold or otherwise disposed of to others, by or with the consent of the breeder, for purposes of exploitation of the variety within the time period:

1. one year and lower before the date of filing of the national application; [or]
2. four years and earlier, or in the case of trees or vines, six years and lower before the said date in any other territory.

Article 71 (revised). Distinctness

The variety shall be deemed to be distinct if it is clearly distinguishable from any other variety whose existence is a matter of common knowledge at the time of the filing of the application.

The newly registered variety in any country shall be deemed as the variety is a matter of common knowledge.

Article 72. Uniformity

The variety shall be deemed to be uniform if, subject to the variation that may be expected from the particular features of its propagation, it is sufficiently uniform in its relevant characteristics.

Article 73. Stability

The variety shall be deemed to be stable if its relevant characteristics remain unchanged after repeated propagation or, in the case of a particular cycle of propagation, at the end of each such cycle.

Article 74 (revised). Variety Denomination

Variety denomination shall be conducted as follows:

1. Each variety shall be designated by a denomination which will be its generic designation. No rights in the designation registered as the denomination of the variety shall hamper the free use of the denomination in connection with the variety, even after the expiration of the breeder's right;

2. A proposed denomination must enable the variety to be identified. It must not be liable to mislead or to cause confusion concerning the characteristics, value or identity of the variety or the identity of the breeder. It must be different from every denomination which designates, in the territory of the Lao PDR or any foreign country, an existing variety of the same plant species or of a closely related species;

3. The denomination shall be registered at the same time as the breeder's right is granted in accordance with requirements set forth in the regulations;

4. Any individual, legal entity or organization who, within the territory of the Lao PDR, offers for sale or markets propagating material of a variety protected within the said territory shall be obliged to use the denomination of that variety even after the expiration of the breeder's right in that variety, except where prior rights prevent such use of denomination of this Article;

5. When a variety is offered for sale or marketed, it shall be permitted to associate a trademark, trade name or other similar indication with a registered variety denomination. If such an indication is so associated, the denomination must nevertheless be easily recognizable.

Chapter 2

Registration of New Plant Varieties

Article 75 . Eligibility to Submit an Application

Any individual, legal entity or organization eligible to submit an application is as follows:

1. any breeder as defined above may file an application for breeder's rights;
2. where two or more persons have jointly bred a new variety, such persons may jointly apply for plant breeder's rights. In the absence of any special declaration of the apportionment of ownership, they are presumed to be owners of equal part of the concerned variety;
3. a foreign individual, legal entity or organization shall enjoy within the territory of the Lao PDR the same treatment as is accorded to Lao nationals, subject to the requirement that a party that does not have a residence or business premises shall appoint a representative with such premises in the Lao PDR.

Article 76 (revised). Priority Date

A claim of priority is as follows:

1. A breeder who filed an application for a new plant variety registration in any country that is a party of international convention related to plant variety protection to which the Lao PDR is a party shall enjoy the priority date in submission of the application for the grant of the same variety breeder's right in the Lao PDR for a period of twelve months from the date of filing the first application.
2. If the first filing application was made in a country or an intergovernmental organization is a non-participant of international convention related new plant variety protection to which the Lao PDR is a party, the applicant shall enjoy the priority date once the country or the intergovernmental organization granted the protection right to plant breeders from the Lao PDR.
3. an applicant who applied for registration of new plant variety may request for the priority date based on one or more applications which previously submitted at an office for registration of new plant variety of the Lao PDR or in an oversea country or an international organization to which the Lao PDR is a party within a period of three months from the filing date of the Lao application, a copy of the documents [and] the application that constitute the first application, certified to be a true copy by the authority with which that application was filed, together with samples or other evidence that the variety which is the subject matter of both applications is the same.
4. the breeder shall provide the Ministry of Science and Technology any necessary information, document or material required for the purpose of the examination under Article 80 of this law within a period of two years after the expiration of the period of priority or an appropriate time, where the first application is rejected or withdrawn. .
5. in case there is any incident occurred such as the filing of another application or the publication or use of the variety that is the subject of the first application as stipulated in item 1 of this Article, shall not constitute a ground for rejecting the subsequent application. Such events shall also not give rise to any third-party right.

Article 77. Application for Registration

Any individual, legal entity or organization eligible to apply for plant breeder rights may file an application to register a plant variety at Ministry of Science and Technology. Each application for registration of new plant variety shall relate to a single plant variety. An application for plant variety protection and any accompanying material may be filed in either the Lao language or in the English language. Such filing will be sufficient to establish a filing date or date of submission for the application or other materials, provided however, that for any application or document filed or submitted in English, the applicant must, within 90 days of such filing or submission, supply a translation into the Lao language. Such translation must be certified to be a correct translation.

Such application shall include the following elements:

1. an application form for plant breeder's right;
2. name of the breeder, and if applicant is not the breeder, a statement of the basis of applicant's ownership;
3. A power of attorney shall indicate the name and address of the representative in the Lao PDR, in the event of the application submitted by the representative;
4. proposed new denomination;
5. description of the variety setting forth its distinctiveness, uniformity, and stability and a description of the genealogy and breeding procedure;
6. a viable sample of the propagating material of the new variety or statement related to propagating material;
7. where available, such data as required to determine whether the requirements of distinctiveness, uniformity, and stability have been met;
8. such other information as may be required by the Ministry of Science and Technology;
9. receipt for payment of the applicable fee and service charges.

An application may include a claim for priority date as provided in Article 76 of this law.

The Ministry of Science and Technology shall accept the application and assign a filing date which shall consist of at least the documents as stipulated in items 1, 5 and 9 of the above paragraph.

Any individual, legal entity or organization wishes to register a new plant variety shall fulfill all the requirements within the time set by the Ministry of Science and Technology.

Article 78 (new). Examination of Application for New Plant Variety Registration

The Ministry of Science and Technology shall carry out an examination of application for registration of new plant variety to be correct and complete as defined in Article 77 of this law. If the application is correct and complete, the Ministry of Science and Technology shall certify the filing date of the application for the applicant.

In the event that the application is incomplete or incorrect, the Ministry of Science and Technology shall inform the applicant to correct it within sixty days from the date notice issued.

Article 79 (new). Publication of New Plant Variety Registration

Once the formality examination is completed, the Ministry of Science and Technology shall summarize the application for new plant variety registration and publish the new plant variety on the official gazette.

A third party may object against such registration within ninety days from the date of publication.

Article 80 (revised). Substantive Examination of Application for New Plant Variety Registration

An application for a new plant variety registration shall be subject to a substantive examination for compliance with the conditions as stipulated in Articles 69 to 73 of this law.

In the course of the examination, the Ministry of Science and Technology shall cooperate with plant variety testing authorities concerned to carry out plant variety plantation test or carry out other necessary tests, where the applicant shall be responsible for the cost incurred for growing tests or consideration of growing test results or other trials which have already been carried out. The costs of the growing tests or consideration of growing test results or other trials depend on determination of each agricultural testing center both in the country and abroad specified in each period.

The Ministry of Science and Technology may request a breeder to provide information, documents or propagating materials or all harvested materials where necessary.

In case an application has been filed in another country or intergovernmental organization, the Ministry of Science and Technology shall request for a copy of the application and report of an examination which certified by the plant variety protection authority of such country or organization to be used for consideration of the registration. An applicant may add to or correct the description at any time before the certificate is issued, upon a showing acceptable to the Ministry of Science and Technology that the revised description is retroactively accurate, but subject to preventing an injustice to third parties.

Article 81(new). Registration

After formality examination, if the application for new plant variety registration satisfied all requirements as stipulated in this law, the Ministry of Science and Technology shall register and issue a certificate for new plant variety registration for the applicant, record the registration and publish result of such new plant variety registration on the official gazette.

Chapter 3

Rights and Obligations of the New Plant Variety Owner

Article 82 (revised). Rights of the New Plant Variety Owner

The new plant variety owner has the following rights:

1. to prevent individuals, legal entities or organizations from:
 - 1.1. production, reproduction or additional production;
 - 1.2. conditioning for the purpose of propagation;
 - 1.3. offering for sale;
 - 1.4. selling or distribution;
 - 1.5. import;
 - 1.6. export;
 - 1.7. stocking for any of the purposes mentioned in items 1.1 to 1.6, above.
2. to make his authorization subject to conditions and limitations;
3. to protect their rights under the law and regulations against infringements by others such as to institute court action, [and] rights to compensation from damages caused by others.

The acts referred to in items 1.1 to 1.7 of this Article in respect of harvested material, including entire plants and parts of plants, obtained through the unauthorized use of propagating material of the protected variety shall require the authorization of the breeder, unless the breeder has had reasonable opportunity to exercise his right in relation to the said propagating material. The provisions of this paragraph shall likewise apply in respect of products made directly from harvested material of the protected variety.

The provisions of paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article shall also apply in relation to the varieties as follows:

1. varieties which are essentially derived from the protected variety, where the protected variety is not itself an essentially derived variety;
2. varieties which are not clearly distinguishable in accordance with Article 71 of this law from the protected variety;
3. varieties whose production requires the repeated use of the protected variety.

The plant variety owner is entitled a plant variety right obtained from substantial genotype of original plant variety such as selection of a plant variety in nature, mutation of a plant variety, somaclonal variant, selection of different type of variety for propagating purpose with the original variety, genetic engineering of plant.

No individual, legal entity or organization other than the plant variety owner shall undertake any of the acts described in paragraphs 1 through 4 of this Article in the Lao PDR without authorization by the plant variety owner, and except as otherwise provided in this law.

Article 83 (revised). Term of New Plant Variety Protection

The term of new plant variety protection shall be, for trees and vines, a fixed period of twenty-five years from the date of granting breeder's right and for other varieties of plants, twenty years from the date of granting breeder's right.

In order to maintain the term of protection, the new plant variety owner shall pay annual fees and service charges in advance.

Article 84. Provisional Protection

During the period between the publication of the application for the grant of a breeder's right and the grant of that right, the holder of a breeder's right shall be entitled to equitable remuneration from any person who, during the said period, has carried out acts which, once the right is granted, require the breeder's authorization as provided in Article 82 of this law.

Article 85. Obligation of New Plant Variety Owner

The owner of the new plant variety has obligation as the same as industrial property owner under Article 63 of this law.

Chapter 4

Exceptions and Limitations Relating to New Plant Variety Owner's Rights

Article 86 (revised). Exceptions to the Breeder's Rights

The breeder's rights are excluded in case there are:

1. acts done privately and for non-commercial purposes;
2. acts done for experimental purposes;
3. acts done for the purpose of breeding other varieties, and, except where the provisions of paragraph 3 of Article 82 of this law apply, the acts of production or reproduction (multiplication), conditioning for the purpose of propagation, offering for sale, or selling or other marketing in respect of such other varieties.

The Ministry of Science and Technology shall limit the right as appropriate and protect legitimate right of the breeder in accordance with laws to limit rights of the breeder to each plant variety in order to allow farmer use for propagating purposes, on his or her own holdings, the product of the harvest obtained by such farmer by planting on his or her own holdings, the protected variety or a variety covered by Article 82 paragraph 3, items 1 or 2 of this law.

Article 87. Exhaustion of the Breeder's Right

The breeder's right shall not extend to acts concerning any material of the protected variety, or of a variety covered by the provisions of paragraph 3 of Article 82 of this law, which has been sold or otherwise marketed by the breeder or with his consent in the territory of the Lao PDR, or any material derived from the said material, unless such acts as follows:

1. involve further propagation of the variety in question;
2. involve an export of material of the variety, which enables the propagation of the variety, into a country which does not protect varieties of the plant genus or species to which the variety belongs, except where the exported material is for final consumption purposes.

For the purposes of paragraph (1) of this Article, "material" means, in relation to a variety:

1. propagating material of any kind;
2. harvested material, including entire plants or parts of plants;
3. any product made directly from the harvested material.

Article 88 (revised). Measures Regulating Commerce

A breeder, even if the rights are granted, shall comply with administrative measures of the concerned authorities when exploits the rights regarding:

1. a new plant variety that has a serious direct or indirect impact on health and environment;
2. a new plant variety derived from genetic modification which has not been evaluated with regard to safety, environment [and] health or to take any other action violating the laws of Lao PDR.

Article 89 (revised). Nullity of the Breeder's Rights

Breeder's rights granted by the Lao PDR shall be nullified in the following cases:

1. that the conditions as laid down in Article 70 or 71 of this law are not complied with at the time of granting breeder's rights;
2. that the provision of information and basic document is incorrect, incompliance with the truth of the breeder to the Ministry of Science and Technology for the consideration of the registration
3. that the breeder's right has been granted to a person who is not entitled to it, unless it is transferred to the person who is so entitled.

No breeder's right shall be declared null and void for reasons other than those referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article.

Article 90. Cancellation of the Breeder's Right

A breeder's right granted by the Lao PDR may be canceled as following cases:

1. the conditions laid down in Article 72 or 73 of this law are no longer fulfilled;
2. after being requested to do so and within a prescribed period, the breeder does not provide the authority with the information, documents or material deemed necessary for verifying the maintenance of the variety;
3. the breeder fails to pay fees and service charges as may be payable to keep his right in force;

4. the breeder does not propose another suitable denomination, where the denomination of the variety is cancelled after the grant of the right.

No breeder's right shall be cancelled for reasons other than those referred to in items 1 to 4 of this Article.

Article 91 (revised). Restrictions Based on Public Interests

Where it is necessary to meet an urgent public needs, the government can issue notifications allowing the exploitation of a protected variety without the authorization of the right owner but the right owner shall receive a fair remuneration.

1. the direct or indirect reproduction, in whole or in part, of a sound recording, computer programs or compilation of data or other materials;
2. the importation into the Lao PDR of copies of a sound recording, regardless of whether such copies have been placed on the market by the relevant right holder;
3. the first public distribution of the original and each copy of the sound recording by sale, rental or otherwise;
4. the rental, lease or lending of the original or a copy of an audiovisual work, a sound recording, or a musical work in the form of notation, for the purposes of direct or indirect commercial advantage.

5. for a computer program or a data base, the rights provided in item 4 of this paragraph except where the copy of a computer program is not itself an essential object of the rental. Putting the original or a copy of a computer program on the market with the right holder's consent shall not exhaust the rental right.

The author or other copyright owner shall have the exclusive right to carry out or authorize the importation or exportation of the original or any copy of the work. This right shall not extend to prevent the subsequent importation or exportation of an original or copy that was legally acquired with the authorization of the owner of copyright or related rights.

The author or other copyright owner of literary or artistic works shall have the exclusive right to carry out or authorize:

1. the cinematographic adaptation and reproduction of these works, and the distribution of the works thus adapted or reproduced;
2. the public performance and communication to the public by wire or wireless of the works thus adapted or reproduced.

The adaptation into any other artistic form of a cinematographic production derived from literary or artistic works shall, without prejudice to the authorization of the author of the cinematographic production, remain subject to the authorization of the authors of the original works.

The author or other copyright owner of literary, dramatic, dramatico-musical works, musical works, choreographic works, pantomimes, and motion pictures and other audiovisual works, including the individual images of a motion picture or other audiovisual work shall have the exclusive right to authorize:

1. the public performance of their works, including such public performance by any means or process; and in particular, in the case of sound recordings, to perform the copyrighted work publicly by means of a digital audio transmission;
2. any communication to the public of the performance of their works;
3. translations of the performance of their works.

Article 103. Infringement of Moral and Economic Rights

No individual, legal entity or organization other than the author shall undertake any of the acts described in Article 101 of this law without authorization by the author, and except as otherwise provided in this law, any such acts without authorization shall be considered to be an act of infringement of the author's moral rights.

No individual, legal entity or organization other than the author shall undertake any of the acts described in Article 102 of this law without authorization by the author, and except as otherwise provided in this law, any such acts without authorization shall be considered to be an act of infringement of the author's economic rights.

The author or copyright owner has the right to protect their rights under the law and regulations against infringements of their moral or economic rights by others such as right to institute court action, [and] right to compensation from damages caused by others.

Article 104. Copyright on Computer Programs and Data Compilations

Computer program is a set of instructions or any other thing used by a computer to make it work or to generate certain results no matter what the computer language is. Computer programs shall be protected as literary works, whether in source or object code.

Compilations of data or other material, whether in machine readable or other form, which by reason of the selection or arrangement of their contents constitutes intellectual creations, shall be protected as literary works. Protection of such works shall not extend to the data or material itself, or prejudice any copyright subsisting in that data or material.

Article 105. Traditional Literary and Artistic Works

A work based on a traditional literary or artistic work shall be protected under copyright without prejudice to the rights of others to make original works based on the same traditional literary or artistic work and to continue to exploit the traditional literary and artistic works.

A collection of traditional literary or artistic works shall be protected under copyright without prejudice to the rights of others to make a similar collection or to continue to tell the stories or otherwise reproduce, modify, or sell the traditional works included in such collection.

Chapter 5 Related Rights Owners

Article 106. Related Rights Owners

Related rights owners are as follows:

1. performers;
2. phonogram producers;
3. broadcasters and broadcasting organizations.

Article 107. Moral Rights of Performers

Independently of a performer's economic rights, and even after the transfer of those rights, the performer shall, as regards his live aural performances or performances fixed in phonograms, have the right to claim to be identified as the performer of his performances, except where omission is dictated by the manner of the use of the performance, and to object to any distortion, mutilation or other modification of his performances that would be prejudicial to his honor and reputation.

The rights granted to a performer in accordance with this paragraph shall, after his death, be maintained until the expiry of the economic rights and shall be exercisable by the performer's heirs unless the performer has provided for the exercise of such rights by another.

Article 108. Economic Rights of Performers

Chapter 6

Term of Protection of Copyright and Related Rights

Article 113. Term of Copyright Protection

The term of copyright shall begin on the date the work is created and shall continue to the end of the calendar year of the dates described below:

1. Except as otherwise provided in this article, fifty years after the date of death of the author, or for a work of joint authorship, fifty years after the date of death of the last surviving author;

2. For anonymous or pseudonymous works, fifty years from the date the work was lawfully made available to the public, provided, however, that the term shall be as provided in item 1 of this Article where:

2.1. the anonymous or pseudonym adopted by the author leaves no doubt as to his identity;

2.2. the author of an anonymous or pseudonymous work discloses his identity during the above-mentioned period.

3. For a cinematographic work, fifty years from the date the work was made available to the public with the consent of the author, or, failing such an event within fifty years from the making of such a work, fifty years from the making;

4. For applied art and photograph, twenty-five years from the date of creation.

In the case that there is an international convention, which the Lao PDR is a party or an international agreement to which the Lao PDR is a signatory, the term of protection shall be as, determined in such convention or agreement.

Article 114 (revised). Term of Related Rights Protection

The term of related rights protection is as follows:

1. for performers, the term of protection shall begin with the date of the performance and last until the end of a period of 50 years from the end of the calendar year in which the performance was fixed in a phonogram;

2. for producers of phonograms, the term of protection shall begin with the date the phonogram is first fixed and last until the end of a period of 50 years from the end of the calendar year in which the phonogram was published, or failing such publication within 50 years from fixation of the phonogram, the term of protection of the phonogram shall last until 50 years from the end of the calendar year in which the fixation was made; [and]

3. for broadcasters and broadcasting organizations, the term of protection shall begin with the date of the broadcast and shall last until the end of a period of fifty years from the end of the calendar year in which the program was first broadcast.

Chapter 7

Limitations and Obligations of Copyright and Related Rights

Article 115 (revised). Acts Consistent with Fair Use

The following acts shall be permissible without consent of the author, and without remuneration:

1. making quotations from a work which has already been lawfully made available to the public, provided that their making is compatible with fair use, and their extent does not exceed that justified by the purpose, including quotations from newspaper articles and periodicals in the form of press summaries;

2. utilization, to the extent justified by the purpose, of literary or artistic works by way of illustration in publications, broadcasts or sound or visual recordings for teaching or scientific research, provided such utilization is compatible with fair practice;

3. reproducing, by photography or cinematography, images of works of fine art, photographs, and other artistic works, and works of applied art, provided such works have already been published, publicly displayed, or communicated to the public, where such reproduction is incidental to the photographic or cinematographic work and is not the object of the photographic or cinematographic work;

4. Translating literary works into Braille or other characters for visually-impaired persons;

5. Reproducing a computer program where such reproduction occurs in the ordinary operation of the computer program, providing the use of the computer program is consistent with terms of authorization of the copyright owner;

6. Reproducing a work embodied in electronic media for backup or archival storage, or for replacement of a legally acquired work that is lost, destroyed or fails to work.

Where use is made of works in accordance with items 1.1 and 1.2 of this Article, mention shall be made of the source and of the name of the author if it appears thereon.

The following acts shall be permissible without consent of the author, and without remuneration, provided such acts are consistent with fair use, provided the source is clearly indicated reproduction by the press, the broadcasting or the communication to the public by wire of articles published in newspapers or periodicals on current economic, political or religious topics.

For the purpose of reporting current events by means of photography, cinematography, broadcasting or communication to the public by wire, literary or artistic works seen or heard in the course of the event may, to the extent justified by the informatory purpose, be reproduced and made available to the public.

The above acts shall not conflict with a normal exploitation of the work and shall not unreasonably prejudice the legitimate interests of the author.

A determination of whether a use as above constitutes a fair use shall take into account the circumstances as a whole as further described in a specific regulation.

The provisions of this article will not apply to:

1. reproduction of architectural works, including by construction of the work;

2. reproduction that requires circumvention of technological measures to protect copyright or related rights, or the unauthorized removal or alteration of electronic rights management information.

Chapter 2

Court Proceedings and Application of Measures

Article 135. Court Proceedings on Intellectual Property Right Violations

A plaintiff suffering from a violation of its intellectual property has the right to file a judicial action to the People's Court in accordance with the Law on Civil Procedures and other relevant laws.

Article 136 (Revised). Plaintiff

A plaintiff in the meaning of Article 135 of this law may be intellectual property owner, federations or associations representing interested industrialists, producers, or merchants, and the Collective Management Organizations or any other person who suffers damages from any intellectual property violations.

Article 137. Jurisdiction of People’s Court for Intellectual Property Violations

The People’s Court shall have jurisdiction over all violations of intellectual property rights in accordance with the procedures as provided for in the Law on Civil Procedures and the Law on Criminal Procedures as the case may be.

Article 138. Special Evidence for Intellectual Property Proceedings

In court proceedings for infringement of a patent for a process for obtaining a new product, where the same product is produced by a person other than the patent holder or a person authorized by him, it shall be deemed that such product was obtained by the patented process in the absence of proof to the contrary, provided however, that in the adduction of proof to the contrary, the legitimate interests of defendants in protecting their manufacturing and business secrets shall be taken into account.

The individual, legal entity or organization whose name appears on a literary work in the usual manner shall, in the absence of proof to the contrary, be presumed to be the author of the work and entitled to institute infringement proceedings. This paragraph shall be applicable even where this name is a pseudonym, where the pseudonym adopted by the author leaves no doubt as to his identity.

In the case of anonymous and pseudonymous works, other than those referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article, the publisher whose name appears on the work shall, in the absence of proof to the contrary, be deemed to represent the author, and in this capacity he shall be entitled to protect and enforce the author's rights. The provisions of this paragraph shall cease to apply when the author reveals his identity and establishes his claim to authorship of the work.

The individual, legal entity or organization whose name appears on a cinematographic work in the usual manner, shall, in the absence of proof to the contrary, be presumed to be the maker of the said work and entitled to institute infringement proceedings.

Where a party has presented reasonably available evidence sufficient to support its claims and has specified evidence relevant to substantiation of its claims which lies in the control of the opposing party, the People’s Court shall have the authority to order that this evidence be produced by the opposing party, subject in appropriate cases to conditions which ensure the protection of confidential information. Where such party to a proceeding voluntarily and without good reason refuses access to, or otherwise does not provide necessary information within a reasonable period, or significantly impedes a procedure relating to an enforcement action, the People’s Court may proceed to make preliminary and final determinations, affirmative or negative, on the basis of the information presented to it, including the complaint or the allegation presented by the party adversely affected by the denial of access to information, subject to providing the parties an opportunity to be heard on the allegations or evidence.

Any individual, legal entity or organization who asserts that an act of infringement or unfair competition is excused as provided in paragraph 2 of Article 121 of this law shall have the burden of proving such facts. This provision shall apply mutatis mutandis to acts of infringement of plant variety rights, copyright and related rights, or other violations set forth in this law.

Infringement of a patent or petty patent shall be established only on the basis of evidence showing that the subject matter alleged to be infringing incorporates or implements each element of at least one claim of the patent or petty patent alleged to be infringed. Infringement is not negated by the presence of additional elements in the allegedly infringing subject matter or by the existence of claims in the patent or petty patent that are not infringed.

For a complaint alleging infringement of a trademark, collective mark, or certification mark, the complainant must show that:

1. the marks are similar in their appearance, sound or meaning;
2. that the marks relate to the same, similar, or related goods or services; and
3. the use of such marks is likely to confuse or deceive consumers as to the source, sponsorship, or characteristics of the goods or services or otherwise indicates falsely that there is a relationship between the complainant's goods or services and those of the alleged infringer.

Article 139 (revised). Invalidity and Cancellation or Elimination

Where a patent, petty patent, industrial design registration, trademark registration, integrated circuit layout-design registration, or plant variety protection certificate is held invalid by the People's Court, the Ministry of Science and Technology shall cancel or eliminate such intellectual property accordingly. In the case of patents or petty patents, such holding shall specify the patent or petty patent claims to which the holding applies.

Article 140. Remedies for Civil Enforcement

In the court proceedings, the plaintiff may request the People's Court to:

1. Order the infringer to desist from an infringement;
2. Order the suspension of Customs procedures;
3. Order the seizure of goods to prevent the entry into the channels of commerce of imported goods that involve the infringement of an intellectual property right, immediately after customs clearance of such goods;
4. Order a declaratory judgment of infringement;
5. Order the infringer to pay damages adequate to compensate;
6. Order the infringer to pay the right holder expenses, which may include appropriate attorney's fees;
7. Order that goods that have been found to be infringing, be destroyed or otherwise disposed of in such a manner that such goods will not enter channels of commerce;
8. Order that materials and implements the predominant use of which has been in the creation of the infringing goods be disposed of outside the channels of commerce in such a manner as to minimize the risks of further infringements.

In considering requests under items 7 and 8 above, the People's Court shall take into account for proportionality between the seriousness of the infringement and the remedies ordered as well as the interests of third parties.

In regard to counterfeit trademark goods, the simple removal of the trademark unlawfully affixed shall not be sufficient to permit the release of the goods into the channels of commerce.

Article 141. Damage Awards

The People's Court shall set damage awards in an amount sufficient to compensate the party making the claim for its losses and to deprive the infringer or other violator of any profit from its unlawful act. The People's Court may order recovery of profits and/or payment of damages even where the infringer did not knowingly, or with reasonable grounds to know, engage in infringing activity.

Article 142. Right of Information

Unless it would be out of proportion to the seriousness of the infringement, the plaintiff may request the Court to order a violator to inform the party bringing the action of the identity of third persons involved in the production and distribution of the infringing goods or services and of their channels of distribution.

Article 143. Indemnification of the Defendant

A defendant may request the People's Court to order a party at whose request measures were taken and who has abused enforcement procedures to provide to a party wrongfully enjoined or restrained with compensation including expenses in connection with the legal action, which may include attorney's fees for the injury suffered because of such abuse.

Article 144. Provisional Measures

An individual, legal entity or organization may file a complaint requesting the People's Court to order prompt and effective provisional measures to:

1. prevent an infringement of any intellectual property right from occurring;
2. prevent the entry into the channels of commerce of goods, including imported goods immediately after customs clearance;
3. preserve relevant evidence in regard to the alleged infringement.

Article 145. Requirements for Application for Provisional Measures

An application for provisional measures shall be required to:

1. provide any reasonably available evidence in order to satisfy the Court with a sufficient degree of certainty that the applicant is the right holder and that the applicant's right is being infringed or that such infringement is imminent;
2. provide a security or equivalent assurance sufficient to protect the defendant and to prevent abuse;
3. supply other information necessary for the identification of the goods concerned by the authority that will execute the provisional measures.

Article 146. Provisional Measures Inaudita Altera Parte

An applicant may file a claim requesting the People's Court to adopt provisional measures inaudita altera parte where appropriate, in particular where any delay is likely to cause irreparable harm to the right holder, or where there is a demonstrable risk of evidence being destroyed.

Where provisional measures have been adopted inaudita altera parte, the parties affected shall be given notice, without delay after the execution of the measures at the latest. A review, including a right to be heard, shall take place upon request of the defendant with a view to deciding, within a reasonable period after the notification of the measures, whether the provisional measures should be modified, revoked or confirmed.

Article 147. Review of Provisional Measures

Provisional measures taken on the basis of Articles 144 and 145 of this law shall, upon request by the defendant, be revoked or otherwise cease to have effect, if proceedings leading to a decision on the merits of the case are not initiated within a reasonable period, to be determined by the People's Court ordering the measures but, not to exceed 20 working days or 31 calendar days, whichever is the longer.

Where the provisional measures are revoked or where they lapse due to any act or omission by the applicant, or where it is subsequently found that there has been no infringement or threat of infringement of an intellectual property right, People's Court shall have the authority to order the applicant, upon request of the defendant, to provide the defendant appropriate compensation for any injury caused by these measures.

Article 148 (revised). Criminal Offenses of Intellectual Property

The criminal offenses of intellectual property are intentional violations of Articles 121, 122, 123, 124, 125 and/or 126 of this law.
